The Malayan Situation

Malaya show that the Communists are continuing to get the worst of it. They military or civilians, but are losing well over 100 of It is this which allows Mr Malcolm Maedonald to tell | Nixon, that "the low point has been reached" for the free nations in Southeast Asia and that "the tide is running against the Communists." Nevertheless the Red terrorists are still of the Some guerillas have probably been withdrawn deep into the jungle areas of Northern Malaya; others may have simply mingled with the civilian population. But whether they are losing much of that support from people in the towns and villages which has been part of their strength from the beginning is a matter for doubt, Years of police surveillance, curfews and restrictions have endeared the Government to the people of the Malayan countryside, and it is good news that the emergency regulations have largely litted in .. one area of Malacca. Open Today PESSIMISM OVER OUTCOME

11th-Hour Warning Dean

Munsan, Oct. 26.

The United Nations will open direct negotiations with the Communists today to pick a time and place for the Korean peace conference amidst pessimism that the conference may never be called.

Special envoy Mr Arthur H. Dean will sit down across a table from North Korean and Communist Chinese delegates at 11 a.m. near Panmunjom. Mr Dean will represent the 16 UN nations that fought in Korea as well as the South Korean Government, which is not a member of the UN.

The negotiations will be held in a straw mat building exactly straddling the truce line about one mile south of Panmunjom.

In an eleventh hour warning, Mr Dean cautioned that he will not let the Reds change the meeting into a propaganda marathon and said he expected the Korean conference to be arranged in seven to 10 days.

Madras, Oct. 25. Mr R. G. Casey, Australia's Minister for External Affairs, said today South Korea's objection to India's membership on the Korean political conference was based on a "complete misunderstanding" by Dr Syngman Rhee, the South Korean President.

WASHINGTON SPEND MORE ON CIVIL DEFENCE

Washington, Oct. 26.

The United States Civilian Defence Administrator, Mr Val Peterson, said today Congress would be asked next year to appropriate $650,000,000 for civilian defence—about 14 times as much as it approved for this year.

He said in a radio interview that the $650,000,000 would be used to stockpile medical and engineering items, fire-fighting equipment and electric generators, and to match money put up by the States for their civilian defence needs.

The Civilian Defence Administration had asked this year for $125,000,000, but Congress appropriated only $40,500,000.

A private American research group said today that the United States could if necessary raise its defence spending to as much as $75,000,000,000 a year by 1956 without causing serious the 1

Though Counsellors of State will be appointed to handle the day to day matters which need the Sövereign's signature or approval, there are some things which will require the Queen's personal, attention.

"Communications will be such that the Queen will be in constant touch with her Governments in the United Kingdom and In the entire Commonwentth," a Buckingham Palace spokesman said today.

"She will continue her work wherever she is." According to the Palace spokesman, the Counsellors will be responsible mainly for United Kingdom affilirs. Eich Dominion, however, has the privilege of deciding whether or not matters portaining to their Governments are approved by the Counsellors or the Queen herself.

It is expected that before the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh leave for their tour on November 23, a new or amended Regency Bill will be passed by Parliament.

It will probably be altered so as to include the Queen Mother among the Counsellers of State and to transfer the power of Regency from Prince, s Margaret to the Duke of Edinburgh.

Under the present Regency Act of 1937 (which was amended in 1943), the Regent is the person of full age, 21 years, next in line of succession to the Crown, Princess Margaret is that person, coming after the heir apparent, Prince Charles, nearly five years old, and Princess Anne, three.

The Regent would come to power in the event of the Queen's death or incapacity to govern and then only if Prince Charles were under age .- China Mail Special.

Government in that privately, circulated sheet called the Government Gazette, would seem to have been now made over to Mr Robert Strachan at least so I gather from the late numbers of the periodical; but for what consideration, or under what arrangement, you may perhaps be able to inform us. Government Farms, as Salt-Weighing, Stone-Quarrying, Markets, &c., are generally put up for public competition: but in the case of the Gazette. as in that of Gunpowder Manufactories on the island, (from' which, by the way, all the piratical fleets on the coast are generally supposed to be supplied,) a simple "license in from the Colonial writing" Secretary is sufficient - said Colonial Secretary holding a discretionary power "to refuse the issuing of such license."
